China, Thursday, 5 August 2010

Global trade solutions provider for the financial services community Surecomp announced today the opening of its expanded Beijing support and development centre. The site is responsible for developing Surecomp solutions for local and off-shore markets, providing off-shore development services for customized banking applications and supporting Surecomp clients throughout the Asia-Pacific region.

Surecomp's expanded Beijing center features state-of-the-art facilities and is staffed by a highly dedicated team of software and banking professionals.

Located in Beijing's renowned Chaoyang District, the expanded center is situated in the Sanlitun Soho complex, a commercial and residential project comprising five mid-rise office towers and four residential towers. Designed by the world-famous Japanese architect Kengo Kuma, and under the management of Soho China, the complex also includes an array of retail stores and entertainment outlets.

In honor of the opening of the expanded center, Surecomp invited dignitaries, clients, and local and international Surecomp staff – including Surecomp President Eyal Hareuveny and Surecomp China General Manager Mathew Chen – to the inauguration event.

"The relocation and upgrading of Surecomp's Beijing support and development center reinforces our commitment to our growing number of clients in the Asia-Pacific region, and conveys our belief in the stability of the Chinese banking market," remarked Joel Koschitzky, Surecomp Chairman. "I am exceptionally proud of our achievements in China over the last few years, which is reflected by the quality of our locally developed solutions and by the continuous trust in Surecomp shown by our satisfied regional clients."

Adding his congratulations Eyal Hareuveny, Surecomp President remarked "Surecomp is dedicated to developing solutions that allow our clients to successfully meet the challenges posed by ever-evolving banking and financial markets. This expanded support and development center – linked with Surecomp's other regional centers in the US, Chile, the UK and Israel – allows us to pursue ongoing innovation and stable growth while meeting and surpassing the needs of our current and future clients."
